Kansas Territorial Records

Records, 1854 - 1861

Record Group No. 920

The six reels of microfilm contains;

Enrolled Laws 1855 - 1860 (AR 145 through AR 150) (Control number 00777).

Administrative Information:

The original records were transferred to the State Archives over a period of years. Some private donations were forthcoming as well.

This material was microfilmed over the years by the Kansas State Historical Society (Topeka).

Scope and Content:

The records of the Kansas Territorial period are divided into six sub groups, namely, Executive Department, Legislative Assembly, Territorial Secretary, Treasury Department, U S District Court, and City/County of Leavenworth.

History:

The Kansas-Nebraska Act was approved by Congress on May 30th, 1854. Thus present day Kansas, part of Nebraska, and part of Colorado were opened up for Euro-American settlement. The Territorial period of Kansas history is not only important from the Kansas or Midwestern point of view. It is important to the whole of American history as well, due to one aspect in particular; that being slavery. This time period is referred to as the “Bleeding Kansas” era.

There were many attacks and counter attacks by both pro and anti slavery groups. These occurred both in Kansas Territory and the State of Missouri. Residents on both sides of the border were responsible. The Missouri pro slavery groups were often called Border Ruffians. The Kansas anti slavery groups were often called Jayhawkers. Two of the better known Jayhawkers were John Brown and James Montgomery.

John Brown came to Kansas specifically to fight the pro slavery forces that were assembling in an attempt to have Kansas join the union as a slave state. John Brown is better known for leading an unsuccessful slave revolt at Harper’s Ferry Virginia (now part of West Virginia) in 1859. He was subsequently hanged for treason due to this action. His exploits lead to a song which was the forerunner of the “Battle Hymn of the Republic”. The song was originally titled “John Brown’s body”. The lyrics included “John Brown’s body lies a moldering in the grave”.

James Montgomery was an Ohioan by birth and former Kentucky and Missouri resident. He arrived at Linn county in Southeast Kansas in August of 1854. He was prominent in the affairs of the area for the next few years. Mr. Montgomery was considered a good orator, courageous, a good strategist, and very clever. After a raid by a Missourian named Clarke, he set about to fight back with equal guerrilla tactics. He went to Missouri ostensibly to get work as a school teacher. After two weeks of teaching he had obtained necessary information on the men involved with Clarke. His band captured roughly twenty of the Clarke band and took their horses, money and weapons. Montgomery’s men obtained the nickname of “Osages” because of their proximity to the Little Osage country. Many pro slavery, or alleged pro slavery, people lived in fear of him and any possibility of his attacking them.

In the election of 1852, Franklin Pierce of New Hampshire was elected President. The 1856 election saw James Buchanan of Pennsylvania elected President. These men, both Northerners and Democrats, were considered Dough Faces. That was a derogatory term given to Northerners who had Southern sympathies. Both men would have been just a happy to see Kansas enter as a slave state as opposed to a free state.

Kansas had four attempts at constitutions during the Territorial era. The Topeka Constitution was drafted on October 23rd 1855. It was approved on December 15th 1855. As the Congress, President, and slave versus free state factions could never agree on all of its provisions this attempt failed.

Delegates were elected for the Lecompton Constitution in June of 1857. A pro slavery constitution was formed at Lecompton, Kansas on September 4th 1857. This was passed in December of the same year. The main provision of this first vote was that the “Constitution with slavery” had won. This meant that all slaves in the Territory could remain as such. However, one clause stated: “Free Negroes shall not be permitted to live in this State under any circumstances”. The free state proponents found these concepts unacceptable. Many people questioned the legitimacy of this constitution charging that Missouri residents had voted illegally. A second vote occurred where the free state side won, i.e. the “Constitution without slavery” clause was victorious. Once again factionalism precluded the admission of Kansas as a state. As the proposed constitution was voted down in October of 1858, this led to the Leavenworth constitution.

An election for delegates was held on March 9th 1858, and assembled on March 25th. The Leavenworth Constitution was ratified on May 18th 1858. Yet again Kansas could not enter the union due to infighting difficulties.

Delegates met at Wyandotte in June of 1859. They assembled there on July 5th. An anti slavery constitution was adopted July 29th 1859. This was ratified on October 4th 1859. This Wyandotte Constitution still forms the basis for the present day Constitution. An election for state officers occurred on December 6th.

The November 1860 election of Abraham Lincoln, under the anti-slavery Republican party, set the wheels in motion for both Kansas statehood and the Civil War. Due to the Republican’s aversion to slavery anywhere in the country a number of Southern states seceded. Before Kansas statehood, South Carolina (December 20th, 1860), Mississippi (January 9th, 1861), Florida (January 10th, 1861), Alabama (January 11th, 1861), Georgia (January 19th, 1861), and Louisiana (January 26th, 1861) all left the union. Even before the election, Kansas was making strides in 1860 towards statehood. Due to the defection of Southern Senators, Kansas was able to receive enough votes for statehood.

Kansas was admitted to the union on January 29th 1861 as the 34th state. It was one of the last acts of President James Buchanan. Ironically, Dough Face President Buchanan was held in high contempt in Kansas Territory, yet he was the one who gave them statehood.

Organization:

These records are organized into six sub groups, based principally on the form of the material:

Sub group 1: Executive Department	1854 - 1861	025 boxes, 000 reels, 021 volumes

Some of the materials found in both folders and volumes include a record of deeds and mortgages. The oaths of office for elected officials, list of bonds, and corporate charters, are also available. Census returns listing the total number of people at the household, males, females, “Colored” residents, and, occasionally slaves, are present. Correspondence files mention: the Capitol at Leecompton, the Governor’s message to the Legislature, the Leecompton constitutional convention, “Indians” and their lands, “Territorial troubles”, and the Wyandotte constitutional convention. The Council and House dockets, and journals, state bills, their description, and usually the dates involved. The election returns are usually broken down by county. Also present are enrolled laws and their corresponding description and pertinent dates. Some of the highlights of the Executive Minutes are: Andrew Reeder's oath of office, the March 1855 census, Robert Walker's inaugural address, and Governor Samuel Medary's telegram to President James Buchanan regarding "bandits".

Sub group 2: Legislative Assembly 1855 - 1861 010 boxes, 006 reels, 003 volumes

There are a number of Council, House Bills and enrolled laws that deal with most conceivable subjects. A short list could include: city/town, rail road, cemetery, business, bridge, company, college, university, ferry, county, or church incorporations. Masonic Lodges and turnverein are dealt with too. Turnverein was a German gymnastic and patriotic movement founded early in the 19th century. Also present are divorce bills and bills to locate county seats and roads. A few examples from 1855, An act to prevent offenses against slave property, An act to restrain intercourse with the Indians, and An act to enable persons held in slavery to sue for their freedom, from 1857; An act to prohibit the circulation of paper currency of a less denomination than three dollars, An act to provide for the taking of a census as well as an election for delegates to a convention, and an act to punish rebellion; from 1858; CB 107: an act to restrain dueling, an act to provide for taking a census, and an act to protect the rights of married women, from 1859; HB 268 - An act authorizing the Governor to employ Council to defend such citizens as are now confined in jail in Platte County Missouri, And from 1860; HB 200 - An act making Indians citizens, and CB 27: an act to prohibit slavery & involuntary servitude in the Territory of Kansas. Election results for Kansas elections during the years of 1857, 1858, 1859, and 1860 provide good detail on voting patterns and results. Women's suffrage petitions from 1859 and resolutions are to be found in this sub group. One resolution is from 1858: "Against admission of Kansas under Lecompton Constitution". Lastly, various vouchers and receipts give details on how monies were spent during the years covered herein.

Sub group 3: Territorial Secretary 1858 - 1860 001 box, 000 reels, 000 volumes

There are type written copies of entries found in the Executive Minutes describing: the execution of anti slavery men by pro slavery men on May 20th 1858, the Leavenworth Constitution, and Montgomery's marauders, an excerpt of a Senator Steven Douglas speech, and abolitionist John Brown. Receipts for election materials shows that a package containing the Poll Books, Oaths, Certificates, Tickets and Instructions to Judges was delivered on or before eight o'clock on the morning of Monday August 2nd (1858). Receipts of the Sergeant at Arms for Supplies lists the individual receiving goods or services, the goods or services received, date, and the name of the Sergeant at Arms.

Sub group 4: Treasury Department 1854 - 1861 005 boxes, 000 reels, 024 volumes

Accounting and financial materials are available in this sub group. An appropriations ledger shows detail data consisting of: date, amount and name of the appropriation(s). Claim warrant stubs give the researcher information on the number, name of individual, reason for amount tendered, date (month, day, year format), and amount tendered. Claim warrants list the warrant number, "Territory of Kansas", numeric amount, city, date, individual's name, amount written out, reason for payment, and Treasurer's signature. Day books show; date, amount of money involved, reason for the expenditure, and the individual(s) involved. Ledger record of receipts and expenditures lists: date, individual or group involved, amount and type of receipt or expenditure as well as debits and credits. Pages eighty-eight and ninety-four of the ledger list the 1858 Legislative Convention expenses. The private property volume's detail has: number, date, county, year, general revenue, capitation, school taxes, and total. The Quantrill raid claims paid volume is entitled "Proceedings of the Board of Commissioners dealing with losses incurred by the invasion of Bands of Guerrillas and Marauders into Kansas during 1861 to 1865 inclusive". The proceedings were first held March 18, 1875 at Topeka. The detail lists a randomly assigned number, the individual(s) involved, the date the losses occurred, the place and date that the hearing was held, and a listing of property lost and its assigned replacement value. The last session date was July 16, 1875. The total amount of reimbursement came out to $ 882,390.11. The rail road assessments are handwritten board minutes / proceedings. A warrant register volume lists monies appropriated for various peoples and includes the name(s) of the individual(s), their position, the date, and amount expended. Two pages contain data on "Appropriations for Conventions to form Constitution" and pages thirty-one, thirty-two have data for "Insurrections and invasions made in 1857". There is an assessment abstract for Calhoun county dated January 30, 1857 listing property and its assessed value, slaves are listed as one piece of property.

Sub group 5: U S District Court 1854 - 1860 020 boxes, 000 reels, 004 volumes

The records describe Territorial civil and criminal cases heard in Judicial Court. A couple of examples of Second district court proceeding from 1856 are: United States vs. A. H. Reeder, Charles Robinson, James H. Lane, George W. Brown, Samuel N. Ward, George W. Deitzler, George W. Smith, and Gaius Jenkins for treason, and; Kansas Territory vs. Andrew H. Reeder for resisting an U. S. officer. Most of the cases deal with contempt, and relationships with the Native Americans. Specifically, selling liquor to Indians, settling on Indian lands, and stealing Indian timber. Also other records include; Judge Samuel D. Lecompte's address at the opening of the 1st court (District Court), held in Kansas Territory (Leavenworth City, Leavenworth county), on March 19th 1855. An affidavit respecting John Brown's taking slaves, Governor Geary's requisition for Dragoons, a Grand Jury's findings related to the Herald of Freedom, and information on the Pottawatomie massacre are all available.

Sub group 6: City/County of Leavenworth 1859 - 1861 000 boxes, 000 reels, 013 volumes

This sub group describes both Circuit and District Court proceedings. The volumes describe plaintiffs, defendants, petitions, praecipe, and matters before the Court including the Court's judgment. The petitions include both date heard and case number. The information is sorted by date.

Folder 31: Election Ballots, December 21, 1857

Four sets of election ballots. Three sets consist of small slips of paper that with "Constitution With Slavery" or "Constitution Without Slavery" on one side and a number on the back. These ballots were cast during the election of December 21, 1857 on the Lecompton Constitution "with slavery" or "without slavery." The number appears to correspond to the numbers assigned to individual voters in poll books. One set of ballots can be matched up with the poll book for the polling place in Scott Township, Fort Scott, Bourbon County. Two other sets of handwritten ballots cannot be linked to a specific polling place. A final set of ballots consist of printed ballots for the January 4, 1858 election on the ratification of the constitution and the election of state officers.
